

Needs a Home

New Orleans (AP) — Seven-month-old Quince, a full-blooded American Indian and a resident of the Protestant Home for Babies in New Orleans, can't seem to get adopted. Miss Sally Matlock, executive director of the home, holds the tot for a news cameraman in hopes that publicity may help find the boy a home. Miss Matlock said their facility has found homes for some 1,305 babies but nobody seems to want the Indian lad.